

Introduction to Latin, Second Edition

By Susan C. Shelmerdine ISBN: (978-1-58510-390-4)

Chapter 23

Noun

vīs, vīs f.

vīrēs, vīrium (pl.)

power, force, violence;
strength

Verbs

eō, ire, ī or -ivī, itūrus abeō, abire, abiī or -ivī, abitūrus adeō, adire, adiī or -ivī, aditūrus exeō, exire, exiī or -ivī, exitūrus ineō, inire, iniī or -ivī, initūrus pereō, perire, periī or -ivī, peritūrus redeō, redire, rediī or -ivī, reditūrus subeō, subire, subiī or -ivī, subitūrus trānseō, trānsire, trānsiī or -ivī, trānsitūrus ferō, ferre, tuli, lātus adferō, adferre, attuli, adlātus aufferō, auferre, abstuli, ablātus cōnferō, cōnferre, contuli, collātus sē cōnferre

īnferō, īnferre, intuli, illātus offerō, offerre, obtuli, oblātus referō, referre, rettuli, relātus tollō, tollere, sustuli, sublātus to go to go away, depart

to go towards, approach to go out, exit

to enter; begin to perish, die

to go back, return to go up; to undergo; to approach to go across, cross to carry, bear, endure; report, say to bring to; cause to carry away, take away to bring together, collect; compare; contribute to proceed, go to bring in, introduce; inflict to offer, bring forward to carry back, bring back, report to lift up, raise; remove, carry off, steal

Adjectives

īnfēlix, īnfēlicis

cunctus, cuncta, cunctum unhappy, unlucky

the whole, all (collectively)