

Contents

Preface	ix
---------	----

Section I: SLA and Pedagogy

Chapter 1: Guiding Principles	3
What Do I Need to Know?
Defining Acquisition	3
Defining Communication	5
The Three Modes of Communication	7
First versus Second Language Acquisition	10
The Role and Challenges of Language Teachers	12
What Does It Look Like in the Classroom?
Example 1: Transforming Grammar Drills	15
Example 2: Transforming Dictation Activities	17
Example 3: Interpretive Communication Activity	18
Example 4: Presentational Communication Activity	21
Example 5: Interpersonal Communication Activities	22
Now That You Know
Discussion and Expansion Questions	25
Observation and Application Activities	27
Chapter 2: Goals and Assessment	29
What Do I Need to Know?
Understanding Proficiency Levels	29
Proficiency versus Performance	33
Planning for Proficiency through Performance	34
Assessing and Evaluating Performance	36
Pros and Cons of Integrated Performance Assessments	37
Considerations for Effective Rubrics	41
Intercultural Communication Goals	43
What Does It Look Like in the Classroom?
Example 1: Thematic Unit for Novice Level	47
Example 2: Adapted IPA and Rubrics for Novice Level	50
Example 3: Thematic Unit for Intermediate/Advanced Level	55

Example 4: Adapted IPA for Intermediate/Advanced Level	57
Example 5: Activity on Products, Practices, and Perspectives	59

Now That You Know

Discussion and Expansion Questions	61
Observation and Application Activities	64

Section II: Interpretive Communication

Chapter 3: Input 69

What Do I Need to Know?

Characteristics of Input	69
The (Comprehensible) Input Hypothesis	70
Sources of Input	71
Compelling Learners to Understand	75
Comprehension Checks	77
The Role of Input	78
The Grammar Instruction Debate	79
Structured Input Activities	81

What Does It Look Like in the Classroom?

Example 1: Day 1 of Class	87
Example 2: Introducing a New Topic	89
Example 3: Engaging Students with Authentic Resources	91
Example 4: Working with Infographics	92
Example 5: Input Bracketing	94
Example 6: Class Surveys	95
Example 7: Storytelling with Drawing	97
Example 8: Logic Puzzles	98
Example 9: Memory Games	99

Now That You Know

Discussion and Expansion Questions	101
Observation and Application Activities	104

Chapter 4: Reading, Listening, Viewing 105

What Do I Need to Know?

The Importance of Interpretive Proficiency	105
Engaging with Oral versus Written Texts	106
Selecting Texts	108
Reading and Listening Strategies	110
Components of Interpretive Communication Lessons	112

What Does It Look Like in the Classroom?

Example 1: Short Informational Texts (Interpretive Reading)	119
Example 2: Back-to-School Commercial (Interpretive Listening)	121
Example 3: Animated Legend (Interpretive Listening)	125
Example 4: Asynchronous Interview (Interpretive Listening)	126
Example 5: Newspaper Article (Interpretive Reading)	128

Now That You Know

Discussion and Expansion Questions	131
Observation and Application Activities	132

Section III: Presentational and Interpersonal Communication

Chapter 5: Output 137

What Do I Need to Know?

Characteristics of Output	137
The Output Hypothesis	139
The Role of Output	140
Process versus Product	141
Scaffolding the Process	141

What Does It Look Like in the Classroom?

Example 1: Animated Video (Presentational Speaking)	147
Example 2: Texting Dialogues (Presentational Writing)	148
Example 3: Class Mascot Pitch (Presentational Writing)	150
Example 4: For Sale (Presentational Writing)	151
Example 5: Fan Fiction (Presentational Writing)	151
Example 6: Mini-Research Study (Presentational Speaking or Writing)	153
Example 7: Interactive Fiction (Presentational Writing)	155
Example 8: Business or Product Pitch (Presentational Speaking)	156
Example 9: Study Abroad Essay (Presentational Writing)	157

Now That You Know

Discussion and Expansion Questions	160
Observation and Application Activities	162

Chapter 6: Interaction 163

What Do I Need to Know?

Characteristics of Interpersonal Communication	163
The Interaction Hypothesis	165
Negotiation of Form and Meaning	165

The Role of Interactional Feedback	168
Interlocutor Characteristics	169
Scaffolding Interaction	171
Characteristics of Tasks	172
Types of Tasks	175
What Does It Look Like in the Classroom?
Example 1: Menus (Info-gap Task)	177
Example 2: Shopping (Info-gap Task)	178
Example 3: Planning an Itinerary (Decision-Making Task)	180
Example 4: Mystery Interviewee	181
Example 5: Visual Analysis through Picture Talk	182
Example 6: Simulated Interview	183
Example 7: Book Club Chat	184
Now That You Know
Discussion and Expansion Questions	186
Observation and Application Activities	188
Epilogue: Reality Check	191
Frequently Asked What Ifs	191
Wrapping Up	197
Works Cited	198